ML190-S

The ML190-S series, the world's first strike-powered mortise lock, delivers all the benefits of an electrified lock without the wires. This groundbreaking solution powers the mortise lock directly through the strike, eliminating the need to core doors or add power transfers – preserving door integrity when you have fire-rated doors or glass, making coring difficult. The ML190-S fits standard ANSI prep for quick installation, works with existing access control systems, offers fail-secure/fail-safe and 11-30V options, and is built tough for high-traffic commercial environments.

Core no more. Install with confidence.

Meet the Command Access Locking Hardware Power Supply series – the gym rats of the access control world. These beefy linear power supplies do all the heavy lifting for your electrified latch pullback, freeing up your Access Control to focus on what it does best (which isn't powerlifting, let's be honest). Think of them as the unsung heroes that make your solenoid and motor-driven latch pullback kits hit peak performance, tackling those stubborn doors that make other systems cry. They're like adding a turbocharger to your access control system – UL294 6th Edition listed so the inspectors stay happy, and priced to keep your wallet just as pleased. Because when doors refuse to cooperate, you need a power supply with anger management issues.
